225,000 JAPS IN DESPERATE ASSAULT ON HIS TROOPS

GEN. KUROPATKIN DRIVEN BACK

Mikado's Forces Constantly Attacking; Hope to Force His Surrender, and Make Czar Sue for Peace-----Port Arthur Assailed by 85,000 Japs.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—General Kuropatkin, according to dispatches received here, is hemmed in, with very little possibility of escape.

Attackng the Russian General constantly, and driving him back with fearful loss until his last great stand is made, the Japanese have a gigantic force of 225,000 men.

At the same time the Mikado's forces, to the number of 85,000 men, are pressing in closer and closer upon Port Arthur. It is regarded as only a matter of days until the doom of the fortress is sealed.

It is reported at St. Petersburg that the Czar has strongly urged General Kuropatkin to exhaust every means at his command to maintain his position at Liao-Yang.

Another report says that the Russian forces are so exhausted after the continual fighting during the past seven days that any rapid movement, such as is necessary to the successful evacuation of Liao-Yang, is impossible.

The Japanese are reported to be converging on Liao-Yang from three sides and are already driving in the Russian outposts. It is known that official reports are constantly being received from Kuropatkin and the fact that they are not published adds to the anxiety of the people.

With this immense force of 340,000 men, inspired to such valorous action as has characterized their numerous and almost unbroken line of successes, it is believed that the Japanese plan to capture Kuropatkin's forces and Port Arthur on the same day and thus end the war.

The Japanese are said to be within three miles of the fortress and crushing the stronghold with a terrific bombardment. The Japanese believe it will fall within a week.

Dispatches from St. Petersburg declare that the Russians are fully aware of the critical position of their forces and believe that Kuropatkin's defeat is certain. It is estimated that the Russian losses for the past week were 4,000 men. At Simon-Cheng the Japanese buried 700 of the enemy's dead.

FEARS AWFUL DISASTER.

St. Petersburg's latest advices from Liao-Yang are to the effect that Kuropatkin is now compelled to make his final stand there. As it is known that the next great fight will be of a decisive character, the Russians are very anxious about it. Because of the advanced position occupied by General Kuroki the further retreat of the Czar's forces will be extremely difficult.

A dispatch from Tokio says, however, that it is thought that the decisive battle will either take place at An-Shan-Shan, or that the Russians may reach Mukden be-

SIGNED PAPER, THEN CALLED DIRECTOR.

RECORD TOLD HE WAS IN N. A. TRUST

"I don't know what I am in the North American Trust. President Barry, in whose insurance office I worked, said to me one day: 'Sign this paper, Charley,' I signed it. It might have been my death warrant for all I know. We sign a good many papers here as witnesses for each other. We take it for granted when some one in the office here asks to sign that it's all right. So I signed, without looking. John said jokingly afterward to me, 'Now you're a director in the North American Trust.'"

Charles A. Record, said to be former treasurer of the North American Trust, gave this explanation to a BOSTON AMER-

"It took someone familiar, not only with my house, but also with my habits, to go into my sleeping room without being caught, go to the closet and get that paper envelope containing the jewel bag and jewels," said Mrs. John D. Bates, of No. 101 Commonwealth avenue, in speaking of the theft of $5,500 worth of diamonds, pearl and other precious stone ornaments from her Summer place, "The Briars," at Centre Harbor, N. H.

Dispatches from Laconia, N. H., to the BOSTON AMERICAN say that Mrs. Bates has private detectives out looking for the jewels and the thief. She has offered a $500 reward.

Boston police are keeping sharp watch for appearance of the jewels in any Boston pawnshop or other place where valuables might be disposed

DR. DONALD IS DEAD AT IPSWICH

Unconscious for Three Days—End Had Been Expected at Any Moment.

ALL OF FAMILY PRESENT

Rev. Dr. E. Winchester Donald, rector of Trinity Church, died at his summer home at Ipswich at 6.30 this morning, after a year's illness. For the past three days he had been unconscious, and the end had been expected at any moment. All the members of his family were at the bedside when the end came.

Dr. Donald was born in Andover in 1842.

Dr. Donald was the successor of the Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks as the rector of Trinity, when the latter was elevated to the episcopacy, and as such had a difficult

MRS. PAGET IS LAME FOR LIFE

LONDON, Aug. 6.—An examination of the injuries sustained by Mrs. Arthur Paget, who fell down an elevator shaft at her residence on Monday night, made by Sir Frederick Treves, surgeon in ordinary to the King, showed her right thigh to have been badly fractured, her right knee cap smashed and minor injuries to the left leg, but no internal injuries or other complications. It is feared that the inability to fully treat the knee while the fracture of the thigh is knitting may result in a permanent stiffness of the knee.

General Paget said after the examination that his wife was in good spirits in spite of the severity of her injuries. She will probably be obliged to remain in bed for three months.

GET $1,910,000 FROM SCHWAB

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Charles M. Schwab, who arrived to-day on the Baltic, confirmed the report that he had reimbursed to the extent of $1,910,000 friends who had lost in the Shipbuilding Trust.

"I felt that I ought to bear the responsibility of their unfortunate undertakings, and therefore voluntarily turned over to them that amount of my personal property," Mr. Schwab explained.

He would not say that a return had anything to do with the reports that U. S. Steel would go still lower. He said: "I am out of the game."

FOY DROPS ASSAULT CHARGE.

Thomas A. J. Grady, a paving inspector of this city, has been discharged in the Portchester, N. Y., Police Court, where he was charged with having assaulted Eddie Foy, the comedian. Foy did not appear in court.

MOTHER BALKS SON'S SUICIDE

FALMOUTH, Aug. 6.—Leander A. Conant failed in his attempt at suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, at his home, while in a fit of despondency, for his mother succeeded in getting the razor away from him, although in the scuffle she was cut in the arm.

Neighbors came to her assistance, and Conant was finally bandaged up, put on a train and sent to the Massachusetts General Hospital. Conant was in the express business here, and for some time has been drinking heavily.

HOUSE BURNS; FAMILY ABSENT.

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 6.—The two and a half story dwelling, No. 410 Western avenue, on the Magnolia road, owned by Alex Troy and occupied by his brother, Josiah Troy, has been destroyed by fire in the absence of the family.

fore it is forced. A report from Mukden says that the Japanese attacked the Russians at Au-Shan-Shan, which is between Hai-Cheng and Liao-Yang, on August 2, but were repulsed. The losses were not reported.

BURIED 700 RUSSIANS.

A Tokio dispatch says that it is now estimated that the Russians lost 2,000 men in the fighting at Simou-Cheng. The Japanese sanitary corps recovered and buried 700 bodies in the valleys through which the Russians fought and retreated. Prisoners and Chinese report that many of the Russian dead and wounded were removed by the Russians themselves. The Japanese captured six guns, 570 shells, a quantity of stores and thirty-three prisoners. A detachment of the Russian medical corps, which was captured by the Japanese, was returned to the Russian lines. The Japanese casualties at Simou-Cheng amounted to 800 men, including eight officers killed and twenty-four officers wounded.

JAPS RUSHED HEIGHTS

The fighting at the Yang-Tse Pass began at dawn on Sunday, when the Japanese drove back the Russian outpost companies and took possession of their positions. The Japanese artillery was ineffective here on account of the topographical conditions. Horses were useless and men had to drag the guns over the broken country. It was 11 o'clock before the main battery of artillery opened fire. The main forces of the left column began the attacks from Makumenan and separate detachments advanced along various routes to strike the Russian flank and rear.

The heights of the Yang-Tse Pass were held by the Russians with four battalions. The Japanese partially silenced the Russian artillery, but four of the enemy's guns continued to sweep the Japanese position. Only twenty Japanese guns got into action. The frontal attack delivered by the Japanese in the morning had not become effective by noon. In the meantime a flanking column had scaled some heights and got the Russian range, and at 11 o'clock the Japanese artillery was strengthened. During the afternoon the infantry pressed forward and the entire line became engaged.

The Russians resisted stubbornly. The battlefield was most difficult for manoeuvring and the Japanese were not able to dislodge the enemy. The troops of the Mikado slept in battle formation when the coming of night suspended hostilities. Fighting was resumed at dawn next day, and the Russians were speedily routed.

General Kuroki estimates the Russian casualties at 2,000. At the Yang-Tse Pass the Japanese captured two guns with sixty rifles, 400 coats and much ammunition and equipment. Eight Russian officers and 149 men were taken prisoners. In the fighting at both places the Japanese casualties amounted to 970, including four officers killed and forty wounded.

ALARMED AT CHINESE.

There are indications in telegrams from St. Petersburg that Russian military men are much occupied with the possibility that General Ma's presence in Mongolia forms a part of the Japanese plan. The feeling is that if Kuropatkin, after a serious battle, found himself headed off by the Japanese at Liao-Yang his only line of retreat would be Mongolia. "Who," said a superior Russian officer, "can foresee what would take place then?"

It is significant that the tone of the St. Petersburg correspondents is becoming more and more pessimistic.

RUSSIAN FLEET DRIVEN BACK

TOKIO, Aug. 6.—Admiral Togo reports that a Russian squadron of twelve destroyers, four torpedo boats and some gunboats moved out of Port Arthur yesterday morning, steering for Liao-Tieh-Shan.

They were driven back by the Japanese destroyers and battleship Asahi after an engagement of twenty minutes. The casualties are not stated.

BOSTON GIANT WEPT AT ARREST

Philip Goldenberg, known in Boston as the Arabian giant, fencing master and broadsword contestant, has been arrested in Staten Island, charged by revenue officers with operating an illicit still at his home in South Beach.

Goldenberg stands 6 feet 4 in his stockings, is broad of shoulder and of stalwart physique. For several years he has acted as interpreter in the United States District Courts in this city, and about the Federal Building and Criminal Courts Building he was well known.

When arrested Goldenberg had in his possession a 100 gallon twin copper still and about 600 gallons of yeast and sugar mash, a small quantity of high wines were also found.

When revenue officers broke into his cottage, Goldenberg ran down the road and only stopped when the officers threatened to shoot.

Arraigned before Commissioner Shields, Goldenberg wept bitterly as he declared he had been induced by friends in Boston to undertake the manufacture of liquors. He refused to divulge these friends' names. He was held in $1,000 bail for trial.

WARSHIPS TO GO TO TURKEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Washington and Constantinople are again at odds, and the European squadron may be sent to Constantinople to enforce an answer from the Porte to the United States demands. Secretary Hay has received a cable dispatch from Mr. Leishman, American Minister to Turkey, stating that no satisfactory answer was forthcoming to the requests for settlement of diplomatic differences made by Mr. Leishman in a personal audience with the Sultan last week.

Secretary Hay is sorely disappointed at Mr. Leishman's failure, which follows a session of high hopes, and attributes the procrastination of the Porte to the fact that the American warships long hovering in the Adriatic have sailed westward, and that reports have gone out from Washington that no show of American naval force would be made in Turkish waters.

SINK NO MORE CONTRABAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 6.—There will be no repetition of the Knight Commander and Thea incidents. Russia has issued instructions to naval commanders not to sink neutral merchantmen with contraband on board in the future, except in cases of direct necessity, but in cases of emergency to send prizes into neutral ports. "Direct necessity" may be regarded as a reservation of a right which Russia does not formally relinquish, but which, it is safe to say, will not again be exercised during the present war.

PARKER RESIGNS HIS JUDGESHIP

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 6.—After having held public office for nearly thirty years, Alton B. Parker has ceased to be chief judge of the Court of Appeals of this State.

Without any advance announcement or intimation of his purpose, he came to Albany, took part with five of the other judges in clearing up practically all the cases which had been argued before the court, and then sent a messenger to file his formal resignation in the office of the Secretary of State, as the constitution and public officer's law required.

The judges present were Parker, O'Brien, Martin, Vann, Cullen and Werner. The absentees were Judges Gray, Bartlett and Haight.

His formal resignation was as follows:

"Hon. John F. O'Brien, Secretary of State:

"Sir—I hereby respectfully resign my office as chief judge of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, such resignation to take effect immediately.

(Signed) ALTON B. PARKER.

COL. ASTOR HURT WHILE BATHING

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 6.—Colonel John Jacob Astor is confined to his residence as a result of a hip badly injured in an accident while bathing. It was at first thought that he had broken his right hip, and he and his friends were badly frightened, but surgeons found that, while there was a severe bruise and the ligaments were sprained, there was not even dislocation. Colonel Astor's injury resulted from slipping while walking on the rocks on the edge of the surf. He fell heavily on a sharp rock, striking hard on his right hip.

BROCKTON'S TAX RATE IS LOWER.

BROCKTON, Aug. 6.—The tax rate for 1904 has been announced as $18.70, as against $21.80 last year. Last year's rate was the largest since the Civil War. There are 14,022 polls, an increase of 285 over last year.

assignment, for the pulpit called for a man of strong character and ability.

In the eleven years which he spent there he made himself a master of the requirements. Forceful in his sermons, kindly in his personal relations with his parishioners, an authority on the law of the church, Dr. Donald combined all the characteristics of the successful rector.

It had been so in all his experience in the ministry. From his first beginning, as the curate of a New York church to the conclusion of his career, he was diligent and earnest, and had the esteem and affection of churchmen and laymen alike.

WOUNDED 2 MEN WITH A KNIFE

The police dragnet is out to-day for an Italian believed to be out of his mind who "ran amuck" with a knife. In Harrison avenue he is said to have stabbed Edward Curley, eighteen years of age, of No. 9 Waltham street, and also Michael McNamara, twenty, of No. 17 Corning street.

Both young men were hurried to the City Hospital by the police, while a crowd gave chase to the assailant. The Italian turned down an alley and made his escape.

50 TOWNS END OLD HOME WEEK

Fifty Bay State towns to-day concluded the celebration of "Old Home" week. A number of other towns will celebrate in September.

In Milford a great parade of trades union was witnessed by thousands. Great Barrington also had a parade.

G. A. R. day was observed in Colrain, all the posts there turning out for a big parade. A basket picnic and re-union was held at North Reading. At Hull there were field sports.

Townsend citizens turned out in large numbers to the public meeting held.

ICAN reporter to-day of the manner in which he came to be connected with the trust, whose officers are now being prosecuted by the Federal authorities on charge of using the mails to promote a lottery business.

Mr. Record is now under his own recognizance in $1,000 to appear before Federal Commissioner Fiske August 12 for a continued hearing on this lottery charge. The warrant on which President John M. Barry and Cashier Francis C. Webster of the trust were arrested also named Mr. Record.

Mr. Record Indignant.

Mr. Record is indignant over the whole matter. He is back at his regular place of work, the office of Barry & Co., insurance and real estate, corner of Tremont and Waltham streets. Barry & Co. consists of former Alderman David F. Barry and his son, John M. Barry, the latter the president of the North American Trust.

More arrests may follow to-day. Two men are said to be under consideration by the postal authorities for aiding in promoting the alleged lottery business. The federal statutes hold a person aiding a lottery enterprise as guilty as one actively engaged in it. The two men who may be arrested are prominent in the city.

YOUTH COUGHS UP A BULLET

Special to the Boston American.

SALEM, Aug. 6.—Harold, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansen, of South Byfield, has been seriously injured with a small rifle near his home in that town. The lad was shooting at targets with the gun, and when it began to rain he put it under his jacket to keep it dry. The gun was discharged and the bullet entered his abdomen.

Dr. G. D. Rogers directed the boy to be taken to the Anna Jacques Hospital in Newburyport.

The boy vomited up the bullet. It was found that the bullet had punctured the intestines in four places and the stomach in one.

Everyone who is interested in the coming G. A. R. Convention in Boston should get the words and music of the new patriotic song, "For His Mother's Sake," given away free with every copy of to-morrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

BOUTWELL QUITS WORK; IN HARNESS 50 YEARS

EX-GOVERNOR BOUTWELL.

Former Governor Retires After Great and Honorable Public Career.

After spending more than half a century in business and public life, former Governor George Sewall Boutwell has turned the key in his office door, placed a "To Let" sign on the outside and retired to take a rest.

Since the age of twenty-four, when he was first elected to the Legislature, the former Governor has been a busy man, but he always found time to devote to the service of his country. He was thirty-three years old when elected Governor of this State. He helped to organize the Republican party and has always been one of its staunchest members.

When the Fremont Claims Commission was named by President Lincoln his name appeared as one of the commissioners. From 1862 to 1868 he was in Congress, and while in Washington was appointed on the committee of fourteen which reported the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution and participated in the debate.

President Grant named Governor Boutwell for Secretary of the Treasury, in which position he also distinguished himself. He drafted the bill for funding the public debt and was later a member of the Senate in 1873. Although eighty-seven years of age, he practiced law for the past twenty years.

COWS DYING OF PARALYSIS

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 6.—There is much alarm in Rhode Island over a disease which has taken hold of the cows, and in order to ascertain what is the matter some prominent veterinary surgeons have been summoned to Newport. Of late, several people on the island have noticed that cows have appeared to be paralyzed in the hindquarters, and it was thought that they had been affected by lightning, as there has been a great deal of it of late. When the cattle began to die the owners were disturbed and the matter was taken in hand at once.

FINED, 'REGGIE' BOYCOTTS CITY

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 6.—Reginald C. Vanderbilt is so angry because he has been summoned to appear in court and fined $15 and costs for overspeeding his automobile that he has concluded to punish the village by purchasing no more supplies from the local tradesmen. It is said that his brother Alfred is also angry, and will apply the same drastic measures of retaliation.

The two big farms of the Vanderbilt boys at Portsmouth are large purchasers of supplies and the Vanderbilt patronage is an important matter to the shopkeepers.

WANTS COLLEGE IN ATTLEBORO.

Prince Engalidtscheff, Wife and Children Among Notables of Summer Resort.

PRINCE IS VICE CONSUL

An American Princess, who has reversed the usual order of American girls who marry foreign noblemen, is spending the Summer at Fiume college, Magnolia. She is Princess Engalitscheff, formerly Miss Evelyn Partridge, of Chicago, who married Prince Engalitscheff, one of the imperial guards of St. Petersburg, in 1898. The couple were married in Chicago, where Miss Partridge resided, and where the Prince stopped on his tour around the world. His surrender to the charms of the American girl was followed by his decision to make his home in America, where he has served his country well as vice-consul.

CORBETT WILL SHOW ABROAD

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Jim Corbett is to make another trip abroad next Spring. From England he will go to Paris, Belgium, Italy and probably Russia. Corbett will be accompanied by his former trainer, Fred Block, who is now a successful bookmaker.

In the meantime he says he will engage in four fights. Besides his contemplated "go" with Jack O'Brien he expects to meet Tommy Ryan and Bob Fitzsimmons in short contests at Philadelphia or Chicago.

Corbett has not been abroad since 1894. He went there just after his victory over Charley Mitchell and made plenty of money. Corbett will not do any fighting on the trip. He will simply appear in the music halls. Corbett expects to be away about six months or longer if successful.

If is not denied that the United States adopting sharp measures in Venezuela before long. No evasion or delay on Venezuela's part in making answer and restoration will be tolerated.

MOB TRIES TO LYNCH NEGRO IN HARTFORD

CROWD ABOUT THE JAIL

Special to the Boston American.

HARTFORD, Ct., Aug. 6. Hundreds of infuriated citizens tried to lynch Joseph Watson, the colored valet who defiantly admitted killing Henry Osborne, Police Commissioner and one of Hartford's leading business men. Watson had been discharged by Osborne.

"I had it in for him and killed him. I am satisfied and not afraid to die," coolly said the negro to the police when safely taken to the police station.

His captors had a hold a mob of 1,000 infuriated men at bay. Watson heard, unmoved, cries of "Lynch him." Kill him! Get a rope" as the crowd surged against the police line and fought to reach him.

Flees in Vain.

Mr. Osborne was shot in his nightrobe in a hallway. Wounded at the first fire and leaving a trail of blood, he retreated to the bathroom. His former servant followed, and found his victim lying on the floor. The bendish black bent ver him and fired two more shots at range so close that powder marks stained Mr. Osborne's face.

The shots and Mr. Osborne's cry, "Save me!" were heard in the street. A crowd collected so quickly that when the valet looked out and saw his escape blocked he hid himself under a bed.

Mr. Osborne died in a hospital, and for hours the police searched the city and neighboring towns without finding the negro accused by the dying man. All day a crowd loitered near the Osborne home at No. 23 Capitol avenue.

Surging Crowd.

At night the police searched the house again, and Watson was found in a room that had been searched several times before. He made no resistance, and calmly handed over his revolver.

When the police took their hand-cuffed prisoner down the house steps the great crowd, which had collected at the news of the capture, surged forward and threatened a lynching. The throng blocks the way of the patrol wagon to the police station, and when the negro was safe within the latter the mob swarmed around the prison house and clamored for the prisoner's life.

The wrath of the populace was so great that for a time an attack on the station house was feared. The police took the greatest precautions to guard Watson, and the crowd did not dwindle for hours after the arrest, until report circulated that the murderer had confessed and could not evade punishment.

"After Revenge."

Watson, who is eighteen years old, and very unprepossessing, confessed the crime without a tremor.

"I was discharged on July 15, and was after revenge. I knew Osborne's family was at the summer home at Crescent Beach, near New London, and that he went to the Hartford house every night.

"I had a key and got into the house. I went to sleep in a bed in the basement. When I heard Osborne stirring I went upstairs and shot him. I meant to give myself up at first, but when the police searched the house and did not find me, I hoped to get away when night came."

BURGLARS BLOCKED BY BRAVE WOMAN

Special to the Boston American.

NEEDHAM, Aug. 6.—"Broad Oaks," the magnificent estate of John J. Burgess, one of Needham's best known and most wealthy men, through whose woodland runs the Charles River, dividing the town of Needham from that of Newton, is in great fear over two bold attempts to loot the palace of the rich land owner.

The time has come to act. Our lives are actually in danger. The police protection is inadequate, and I am pleased that the AMERICAN has taken the matter up, for it is only through the detective work of the newspapers that the daring thieves will be punished," said Mr. Burgess to a reporter of this paper to-day.

Twice within two weeks horse thieves have entered the premises of Mr. Burgess. In their first break, two weeks ago Sunday, record at 2 o'clock in the morning, and the thieves got away with a very valuable gray mare, a pleasure carriage and four sets of fine harness, together with clothing and other articles.

Make Second Break.

Hardly had the excitement of the bold look subsided when the thieves, evidently elated at this success, returned and, in their attempt to carry off another horse and carriage, only yesterday morning, were discovered by Miss Sarah Burgess, the sister of Mr. Burgess, and in the running battle that followed the brave young woman nearly lost her life, the bullets from the burglars' guns passing close to her head.

Miss Burgess's courage is the talk of all Needham. She relates the following story of the shooting:

"It was just a little after midnight when I was awaken by the crying of Jack, the dog. I knew that something was wrong and jumped from my bed, grabbing my revolver as I did so. I rushed to the window. There in the moonlight I could make out the forms of two men. They were leading "Jerry," one of the work horses and the milk wagon from the carriage house. I was greatly excited, but tried to retain my composure, and as best I could I raised the window and yelled to the thieves, pulling the trigger of my revolver three times as I did so.

"No sooner had I fired than two shots rang out from the direction of the carriage house. I had heard the load strike over my head and I dropped down from the window. By this time all those in the house and the servants in the adjoining building had been aroused. I called to my brother, and as he went for his gun I turned to the telephone and rang up the Needham police. Then I ran out on the veranda with my brother, and several shots were exchanged. No one was hit.

SUMMER DRINKS FOR THE CHILDREN

Every mother should prepare these simple, delicious and refreshing Summer drinks, more palatable than many soda-fountain drinks, and a thousand times more healthful:

Milk-Ginger—To one glass of iced milk add one teaspoonful of genuine Sanford's Ginger, and sugar. This is nourishing and satisfying, and its delicate flavor appeals particularly to the delicate or to the tired and exhausted. Be sure you get the genuine Sanford's Ginger, for thirty years the standard of purity, flavor and strength.

Ginger Lemonade—The juice of a lemon, sugar, and half a teaspoonful of Sanford's Ginger to each glass.

Ginger Frappe—Some cracked ice, sugar, a dash of lime-juice and half a teaspoonful of Sanford's Ginger to each glass. Be sure to get the genuine Sanford's Ginger, for the flavor, quality and strength.

Switchel—This is an old and favorite hot weather drink with farmers, because of its healthfulness, and if city folks would drink it instead of ice-water there would be fewer summer ills. Take two teaspoonfuls of molasses, water, and half a teaspoonful of genuine Sanford's Ginger, and it's ready. Take it every day and notice how it improves the appetite and digestion—be sure you get Sanford's.

Ginger-Ice—To a glass of ice-water add half a teaspoonful of Sanford's Ginger, and sugar—always healthful.

Sanford's Egg Nogg—Two-thirds glass milk, one egg well beaten, two teaspoonfuls sugar, one teaspoonful Sanford's Ginger—This is delicious and healthful, splendid for weak, nervous and run-down people, especially between meals and on retiring.

Vichy-Milk-Ginger—One-half glass milk, a teaspoonful of Sanford's Ginger, sugar, then add vichy, and you have at once a delicious, nutritious drink—cooling, satisfying, and healthful.

Cold Tea, Lemonade and Ginger—Cold tea, to which has been added the juice of a lemon and a little Sanford's Ginger, is a most grateful and comforting drink.

GRAND ARMY CHOICE SEEMS A CERTAINTY

THEN MADE UNANIMOUS

"That General Wilmon W. Blackmar, of Boston, will be elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army at the annual convention, in Symphony Hall, during encampment week, is a foregone conclusion," said Secretary Wilfred A. Wetherbee, of the Blackmar Campaign Committee, to-day.

Chairman John E. Gilman, and Secretary Wetherbee, who are leading the campaign for General Blackmar, are confident that at least 1,000 votes will be given to the Boston candidate. Their confidence of winning is based on the many returns which have been received in response of the 1,500 circulars which have been mailed to forty-five States and Territories throughout the country.

Thirty-Six States Replied.

Thirty-six States have been heard from, and at least seventy-five per cent. of the replies are favorable to General Blackmar for the highest office in the Grand Army national body. There will be 1,406 delegates at the convention, and his supporters say the Boston man will win out on the first ballot, and that some prominent Grand Army official, not yet selected, will move that the election be unanimous.

General Blackmar's name will probably be presented to the convention by Chairman John E. Gilman.

"Jack" Adams Held Office.

The last Massachusetts man to hold the office of Commander-in-Chief was Captain "Jack" Adams, who was elected in 1894 at the annual convention in Indianapolis.

Headquarters for the Blackmar campaign will be opened Sunday in the Victoria, Dartmouth street. Chairman John E. Gilman will be in charge, and as soon as the delegates begin to arrive they will be convassed for pledges to General Blackmar.

2 SURVIVORS OF 6TH TO HOLD A REUNION

So depleted that in all New England there are but two survivors, the meeting of the remnant of the Sixth Regiment, United States Cavalry, will be one of the most interesting features of the Grand Army National Encampment. No regiment in the whole war received a more bitter baptism of fire. At Gettysburg alone it went into the battle 800 strong; it came out with eighty men unInjured.

This will be the twenty-second annual reunion of the survivors of the regiment. They will meet on Thursday, August 10. The members will have headquarters during the encampment at rooms 5 and 6, Herald building.

The two New England survivors are

HEROES OF MANY BATTLES.

James R. Wood, of No. 257 Washington street, Boston, and Ezra Stearns, assistant Secretary of State of New Hampshire. Mr. Wood during the war was one of General Grant's most trusted scouts. He was under General Burnside, ranking as sergeant of cavalry, but assigned to scout duty, and was trusted with messages of greatest importance by such generals as Grant, Meade, Hooker and Burnside.

During the battle of the Wilderness, when General Grant was cut off from Washington by the Confederate troops, Sergeant Wood was sent to President Lincoln with news of the situation. His story of his reception early in the morning by the President, half clothed and anxious, and of how "Old Abe" hugged him when he delivered his message, is one worth listening to again and again.

In Fifty-Seven Battles.

The regiment was in fifty-seven engagements. It lost 77 per cent. of the entire command. These are the battles in which it fought:

1862.—Williamsburg, Slatersville, New Kent Court House, Newbridge, Mechanicsville, Hanover Court House, Ashaldon, Black Creek, Malvern Hill, Fails Church, Sugar Loaf Mountain, Petersville, Charlestown, Hillsboro, Waterford, Charlestown, Philamont, Unlontown, Upperville, Barber's Cross Roads, Amosville, Sulphur Springs, Fredericksburg.

TRUCK DRIVERS MAY BE CALLED OUT IN CHICAGO

Strike There to be Made "Active" From Now, Is Leaders' Plan.

PACKERS ARE HARD HIT

Special to the Boston American.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Labor leaders are to decide to-day on calling out truck drivers throughout the city as a sympathetic move to aid the beef strikers. It is said that from now on the strike will be "active." United States Commissioner Garfield says his men are obtaining Beef Trust information solely in connection with the Martin resolution, and have nothing to do with strike investigations. Confidential letters sent to salesmen by packers show that the latter are badly handicapped by the strike in spite of their claims to the public. A letter from the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger Company to agents reads:

"It looks to be a fight to a finish, with the odds a little in favor of the packers. Some few union men are coming back, although not in large numbers. Skilled help is needed, and not over 5 or 30 per cent. of the business is being done that would be under normal conditions."

On the day the letter is dated the packers told the public the men at work were 9,000, and that shipments to market by the packers on that day would make a solid chain of refrigerator cars six and one-third miles long.

The packers in a public statement credit Schwarzchild & Sulzberger with having 1,600 men at work in Chicago alone, and say conditions are exceedingly satisfactory. They claim they find no great difficulty in obtaining the services of skilled butcher workmen.

John D. Call, secretary of the Butcher's Union, says he has presented to a representative of the Department of Commerce and Labor evidence that immigration laws were being violated. The union leaders declare that immigrants are being rushed to the stock yards, and that both the spirit and the letter of the immigration laws are being broken.

Hope of Peace Conference.

There is hope of a peace conference between strike leaders and packers because Judge Goodman and H. H. Miner, president and secretary of the Montana Roundup Association, one of the largest cattle of growers in the world, are in town. The association send 250,000 cattle to Chicago stockyards yearly. It is understood that they will visit the packers and urge them in an attempt to come to terms with the workmen. The packers persist that they will not consider labor organizations nor leaders.

A conference between President Donnelly, of the Butchers' Union, and Secretary Wilson, of the Low Drivers' Union, may result in the cutting of ice from all blacklisted dealers.

Reports that the Drovers' Trust and Savings Bank, of the stockyards, was being used to pay off strike-breakers caused the run on the institution. The bank took $200,000 of its deposits and other banks in order, officials said, to be able to pay every depositor in full.

Guards for Strike Breakers.

Police have been detailed to guard houses in which strike-breakers are lodged. One Swift employe says that the entire front of his home has been wrecked, and that threats to burn the house have been made. Edward Allen, men in line, President Donnelly has arranged for a monster demonstration to-morrow. Packers have made tempting offers to skilled men to desert the unions, and appeals have been made from the same source to wives.

SPANISH GUN FOR WORCESTER.

WORCESTER, Aug. 6.—Mayor Walter H. Blodget has received a letter from Major A. H. Russell, acting Chief of the Ordnance Bureau, U. S. A., announcing that Worcester is to get from the Federal Government a Spanish gun in recognition of the services given the government during the Spanish war.

GLADSTONE DOWIE SAID TO HAVE WED MISS HOFER

FORMER ZION CITY OFFICIAL SURE THE MARRIAGE HAS TAKEN PLACE.

MISS RUTH HOFER, GLADSTONE DOWIE'S BRIDE.

Gladstone Dowie, "the great unkissed," son of John Alexander Dowie, self styled "Elijah III," is now said to be married to wealthy Miss Ruth Hofer, the mysterious "Countess," who recently left her home in Constance, Switzerland, coming to America with the Dowies, a convert to Dowieism, according to Paul Bindreiff, former head gardener at Zion City.

"I am positive that the marriage between Miss Hofer and Gladstone Dowie took place," is what he says. Miss Hofer is an heiress to $5,000,000, it is said.

WED IN BOSTON, KEPT IT SECRET

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The marriage has just been announced of Miss Viola Hamgell, of No. 116 South Fourteenth street, Roseville, N. J., to John W. Lane, of No. 326 Lexington avenue, Manhattan.

Friends of the bride were astonished to learn that she had been Mrs. Lane since June 22 last, having been married on that date in the rectory of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Boston, by the Rev. Fletcher S. Kimball.

Both were members of a party of young people who went to the New England States on a vacation trip in June and they decided that the city of culture and taste was the proper place to have the ceremony performed.

CHARGED WITH FLOWER THEFT

Charged with the theft of flowers from the firm of Thomas Galvin, No. 799 Boylston street, Francis Gray, twenty-eight, of East Milton, has been arrested by Back Bay police. For many weeks Florist Galvin has been filling orders sent to him by telephone and purporting to come from his regular customers. In each case when the order was delivered some person would receive them from the delivery wagon in front of the house to which they were sent.

The police theory is that the flowers thus obtained were sent to some young woman.

FALL RIVER NEEDY WELL CARED FOR

Remarkable Success Attained by Strikers in Providing for Wants of Poor.

RELIEF OFFICES NOW OPEN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

FALL RIVER, Aug. 6.—The chief feature of the big textile strike at this time is the extraordinary success that the strikers are meeting with in their efforts to relieve the families of the needy. Not only has the American Federation and scores of disinterested persons taken an active part in this work, but one of the mill owners had made a contribution to the fund of $100, and others have signified their intention of doing so.

The various relief offices throughout the city were opened this morning, not for the distribution of help but to receive applications that they may be investigated. The relief will begin on Monday from these points.

Distributing Dinners.

F. A. Marsden, who has been distributing dinners from his shop on Pleasant street and who has had many more applicants than he provided to accommodate, said that he was amazed by the character of the persons who applied for help. Many of them, he said, were nicely dressed women and girls who apparently had no apparent reluctance and were only forced to ask for aid because they were driven to it by actual hunger.

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor declares that the strike was justified, and that his great organization will sanction it. Mr. Gompers declares that the American Federation will not make an assessment for the benefit of thes trikers, but will simply permit their agent to solicit money. This was the only financial aid the Federation gave the anthracite strikers, yet their agents raised more than $3,000,000.

Gompers says that the claim of the operators that it was necessary to reduce wages to stimulate trade is preposterous.

Liquor Men to Help.

The Liquor Dealers' Association has levied an assessment of $10 on each member for the benefit of the striking operatives. There are 104 licenses in this city, so this action means that $1,040 will be added to the relief of the strikers.

Several local mills are selling their cotton and shipping it out of town. This act confirms what many manufacturers have said to-day—that there is no immediate prospect of a settlement. One concern has already shipped of between 500 and 800 bales to a Connecticut mill, another offers 150 bales in the Providence market, and three or four small shipments of 50 bales each have been made recently.

John F. Creamer gave a clam boil to the whole Stewart street section, the women and children being present on general invitation, while the men were barred.

A new problem, more perplexing than the question of Ann's age, more fascinating than weighing the brick, and a stickler for the wisest of famous Old Clock to a back seat, will be printed in to-morrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. The problem is by the author of the Clock problem that had the whole country guessing, and is a masterpiece.

KELLY IS CONFIRMED AS HEAD AT L STREET BATH

Michael Kelly is the new superintendent of the L street bath, his appointment having been confirmed by the bath trustees. No hearing was given Superintendent Cox, who was deposed three weeks ago. No attempt was made to-day by the trustees for the reinstatement of Mr. Cox. This will be presented to Mayor Collins.

LABOR

News of the Unions

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL '96 BOSTON, MASS.

Contributions to this column should be addressed to the Labor Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN. The editor will be glad to receive and print brief reports of meetings, elections and social gatherings of general interest to union labor.

THE Teamsters' International Union is to renew the fight waged some years ago for jurisdiction over the Brewery Drivers' Union, atp resent affiliated with the Brewery Workers' National Union. The matter was discussed at the convention in Cincinnati. This was the last day of the convention.

Philadelphia has been selected as the place for holding the next convention and the following were named as delegates to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor: Thomas Coan, of Boston, Emmett Flood, of Chicago, Edward Brown, of St. Louis, Harry Wendelken, of Philadelphia, and Max Morgovich, of Chicago.

IRON WORK ASSIGNED.

The dispute between the Boilermakers and th eStructural Iron Workers as to which union should perform certain work has been settled by the American Federation of Labor. Work on smokestacks is awarded to the boilermakers, as is also that on gasometers, steam, air, gas or watertight tank work with the frame work in the outer tank.

The guide frame work above the coping of the outer tank, and the erection of rib, girder and angle iron work in connection with coal hoppers and ash chutes in buildings, and the assembling and erection of the frame and plates on safety deposit vaults is awarded to the iron workers.

The new officers of International Association of Stationary Engineers elected at the Richmond, Va., convention are: Charles F. Hert, of Brooklyn, president; C. P. Wilson, of Milwaukee, vice president; F. W. Raven, of Chicago, secretary; Hugh Ranch, ford, of Connecticut, treasurer. The convention will meet in Louisville, Ky., in 1905.

"OPEN SHOP" DEFEATED.

The fight put up by the open shop printers for the contract for the city printing has ended in defeat. The contract has been awarded to Wright & Potter. At the request of the Board of Election Commissioners Mayor Collins has given them authority under Chapter 418, section 4, of the Acts of 1890, to award the contracts for printing and providing ballots for the State and city primaries for the city election without asking for proposals by advertising.

Some weeks ago Rockwell & Churchill, who formerly did the printing, made a protest against the transfer of the contract to Wright & Potter. They claimed that they had been unjustly discriminated against because of the fact they had become an "open" sop. They asked that proposals for the printing be advertised, that all firms might submit bids.

COAL STRIKE IS OFF.

The great strike of Pennsylvania coal miners is not to be called, after all. It was announced from Wilkesbarre to-day that at the request of the miners the operators asked that the check weighmen and check docking boss questions be submitted to Judge George Gray, the chairman of the Anthracite Strike Commission, his decision to be final. In view of the fact that President Nicholls, of District No. 7, U. M. W. of America, in a public statement proposed that Judge Gray or the entire strike commission be asked to settle the question, it is quite likely that the whole matter will be eventually submitted to Judge Gray.

"MEN OF BEACON HILL."

The August number of Mellen's Magazine, one of the supporters of trades unionism in this State, contains the second instalment of "Beacon Hill: Its Laws and Lawmakers for a Quarter of a Century," by the editor of the publication, James H. Mellen. Mr. Mellen knew the men of whom he writes and writes of them as he knew them.

The articles are illustrated by good likenesses of the leaders, those in the current number including Senator Hoar, ex-Governor Boutwell, General Devens, Senator Dawes and others who have made history in Massachusetts. There are a number of other interesting articles, notably one on George Fred Williams and the men who were with him in the campaign of 1896.

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Those lively balltossers from Beantown are still in the ring this morning, though they are throwing no bouquets at themselves. Nor is Hobe Ferris quite like himself, and is planning no jokes nor cutting up his usual antics.

"Talk about hard luck," said Hobe, "we are getting it. Of course we should have been beaten, but look at the opportunity we had to get back in first place, and now we're third. It's too bad, too bad," and away went the Hub second bagger in his breakfast.

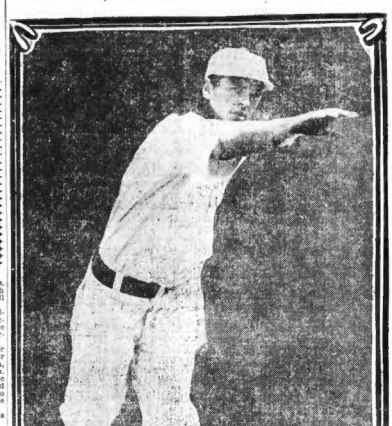
Tannehill will be tried on the Tigers this afternoon, and he may turn the tables. Queer thing these Detroit boys play such fine ball against the Champs, and fall down before other teams.

Killian is due for the firing line, as Collins's men are not likely to have any picnic. Certainly it makes Bobby Lowe happy to down the players from his former roosting place.

Your Uncle Cy was in great form for four innings, but there he stopped, or rather the Tigers began, and in the fifth, after two were out, the trouble began. Four locals banged out safe ones, little Robinson getting a triple. That decided the game, for Mullin buckled down to work and held the visitors safe to the end.

It was a sad story from a Beanester's standpoint.

OWEN, OF THE WHITE SOX.



Here's a photograph of Owen, the crack pitcher of the Chicago White Sox. It was taken specially for the BOSTON AMERICAN, and shows the clever twirler in his home uniform. It's largely due to his efforts that the Windy City team holds second place in the American League race.

CARR SAYS HE WAS NOT FIT FOR BOUT

MARLBORO, Mass., Aug. 6.—Rouse, O'Brien, of South Boston, gave Eddy Carr, of Charlestown, a quietus in eight rounds before the Highland Athletic Club this evening at Marlboro Theatre before a large crowd.

The bout was the feature of the meet, and the men were down on the card for fifteen rounds. Carr had all the fighting he wanted at the end of the eighth round and signified his feelings to Referee Martin Flaherty, of Lowell, who awarded the bout to the South Boston lad.

Carr took his man too cheaply, and he was not able to stand the pace. In the first round honors were even, both men fighting fast. In the second Carr had the better of it. The fourth was the fastest ever seen before the local club. Rouse did the leading, and Carr came back strong. There was fighting every second of this round. In the fifth and sixth rounds both men took things easy, Carr appearing to weaken and being on the defensive.

Rouse did not force the fighting until the seventh, when he began to put the wallops to Carr, who showed his cleverness in covering up. In the eighth Carr was going and Rouse was fighting strong, and at the end of this round the decision went to him. Carr said he was not in condition after the bout.

Ralph Kelley, of Cambridge, and Johnny Lynch, of Boston, two clever youngsters, fought eight pretty rounds to a draw. Paul Lavigne, of South Worcester, put Jim O'Brien, of Marlboro, away in a round.

CUP RACE TO-DAY.

Special to the Boston American.

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 6.—Contests for the cups in several classes of the Corinthian Yacht Club races have been decided there are others to be sailed for, and the contests will be held to-day. Those yachts which have been sailed until their handicaps are: 22-footers, Tayar, Opitsah V. and Pert II.; 18-foot knockabouts, Hush, Hia, Hiseed and Arrow; class AA, Kit, Carina II. and Yarlo; class B, Suzanne, Gringo and Alice.

Don't miss the great Automobile number of the comic supplement with to-morrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

KELLEY'S RED LEGS IN TOWN AGAIN

Joe Kelley and his Redmen from Cincinnati will be the next victims of the Tenneyites, who are now going double quick up the ladder. These Beertown boys are making a game fight to keep the Smoketown champs from stepping into third place, and will make a big effort while in the Hub to better their standing. In this they will find hard sledding, as Buck's Puritans are scoring high, and are not easily stopped while in this condition.

It will be a great half-holiday matinee, with the fans well bunched, as they want to see some of Kelley's wonders in action.

Such familiar faces as Heine Pfeil, Cosey Dolan, Cy Seymour and Tommy Corcoran will get the right reception from the regulars.

Then there are Odwell, the latest phenom in the fielding line; Miller Huggins, the sensational infielder, and Jack Harper, the record twirler.

Umpire Johnstone had a lot of trouble with this same team in the Windy City, and made a wholesale discharge in the ouf. In one game, and they are not on very friendly terms with the auburn-haired indicator man.

Manager Buck well likes the change in the make-up, and will probably keep Dolan lanky in left and Moran at third while Needham makes good behind the bat.

This combination worked to perfection in the walk-up with the Cardinals, as the result showed.

If Big Willis tosses the benders the home talent will get the rooting and the Redlanders will be in distress at the gate.

CORBETT WILLING TO TRAIN DOWN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Now that he is determined to meet Jeffries in the ring again, Jim Corbett does not intend to allow his proposed match with Jack O'Brien to fall through if he can possibly prevent it. The former champion is very much put out over O'Brien's demand for him to make 175 pounds. Corbett is willing to agree to any reasonable demand for weight, and he is willing to make 185 pounds just to show that he is sincere in his desire to fight.

Corbett came to the city yesterday from his Summer home at Bayside. He strolled through the Hoffman House corridor while Bob Fitzsimmons was holding a conference with his theatrical manager. The rival heavyweight did not see the passing of Corbett was discussing his fight with Jeffries with some friends, when he finally said he would agree to make 185 pounds if that was necessary to draw O'Brien into the ring with Jeff.

Corbett will leave for Halifax next Tuesday, where he is scheduled to box Jack White three rounds in an exhibition. On his return Corbett said he would be prepared to meet O'Brien at the New York American office to clinch the match.

CORBETT WON'T BE A TROLLEY DODGER

Special to the Boston American.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—From the present outlook, Joe Corbett will never join Hanlon's aggregation of ball tossers, as he has sent word to the management that he intends to retire from the game for good, and that he has made arrangements to go into business for himself.

Corbett, a few years ago was a member of the Brooklyn team. While still on Hanlon's roster, he jumped to the California League, and when he again decided to join the National League, Hanlon allowed the St. Louis management to sign him. Had the Brooklyn club objected, Corbett could not have played with St. Louis. After jumping from Brooklyn, the pitcher declared he would never play under Hanlon's management, and to date he has kept his word.

Hanlon was not at Washington Park yesterday. He is out looking for players. A pitcher named Scanlon, who is now with the Utica team, has been signed, and will join the Brooklyns after the New York State League is over. Scanlon had a trial with Pittsburg early this year, but was allowed to drift back to the minor leagues. Several other State league players, it is said, have been signed by Hanlon.

FINAL GAMES AT NAHANT

NAHANT, Aug. 6.—In the final round of the singles of the invitation tennis tourney here to-day W. A. Larned will play W. J. Clothier.

In the final of the double Larned and R. D. Wrenn are carded to meet Clothier and Dewhurst.

NASHUA'S WIND-UP.

NASHUA, Aug. 6.—Fine harness racing is promised here to-day, the last of the present meeting. The events are 2:24 pace, 2:22 and 2:24 trots.

BIG BEACH RACE TO-NIGHT

Spectacular riding is looked for to-night at the Revere track, when Caldwell, MacLean and Butler get away on their 20-mile journey to decide the best man at the motor-paced game.

MacLean will not want for encouragement from the beach fans, who are strong for the Chelsea plugger.

While MacLean has much in his favor, he is not prone to over-confidence, as he has been in the game long enough to know that this kind of a race is never won till the gun announces the last push on the pedals.

Caldwell and Butler have been sawing wood for the event and reeling off the miles in faster time than at any period in their careers. They know it will be a gruelling race from the first crack, and have trained accordingly.

Now that Caldwell has got back to the form that made him a continual winner, he is likely to upset any selection that was made in the final reckoning.

The big fellow is travelling just a bit, and it will take record time to spoil his chances in any way.

The trio will make a hard fight for the money, and such physical marvels will give an exhibition of speed rarely seen.

FAST TRACK FOR BIG RACE

Special to the Boston American.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—With fair weather Saratoga will reach her climax here this afternoon with the Great Republic stakes for the $5,000 added special, the greatest sporting horse race of the whole season. Then for steeplechase followers there is the Berkwick Steeplechase over the full course.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing in connection with the day's racing is the meagreness of the Saratoga Special field. But three of the 20 original nominations go. The get value to the winner besides the attendant honor and prestige will be not short of $23,000.

A fast track is the probability.

Don't miss the great Automobile number of the comic supplement with to-morrow's BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

GARDNER TO FACE CANOLE

For the top goods in the big game nothing can take the shine of the bout just arranged between Jimmy Gardner and Martin Canole for three rounds at New Bedford on Labor Day. It will be an open air show with the Showtown custom, as the New Bedford baseball yards will be the scene of the conflict.

The one blot on the Lowell boy's escutcheon is the Fall River lad's standing in the lightweight class. If Jimmy can put him under the end then he can go after anything on the face of the earth. It should be something fine, and the Whale City sports are happy.

BIG GAME AT DORCHESTER

Hundreds of the Dorchester ball fans are taking interest in the game, which will be played on the Dorchester Athletic Field to-day, between the crack Wellington and Neponset aggregations. As the Wellingtons have yet to lose their first game on their grounds, and the Neponsets are going to try hard to turn the trick, the battle should be one of the most exciting seen locally this season.

Long will be on the firing line for the visitors. He formerly was one of the star pitchers of Haverhill, now leader of the New England League. Smith, another former star of the same league, is likely to do the pitching for the home talent.

SIDNEY GETS RUDE SHOCK

BROCKTON, Aug. 6.—That usually clever boxer, Young Sidney, of Boston, only lasted part of a round in a tenround go with Kid Crowe, of Fall River.

From the tap of the bell it was give and take. In a mixup Crowe sent his left to the wind and right to the jaw, and it was all over with the Hub boy.

Jack Tracy got the decision over Frank Clark, of Providence, in a six-round bout. It being Tracy's battle all the way. Clark took a terrible hammering. In another six-round bout Eddie Burns, of Newton, and Young Flonegan, of Canton, went to a draw.

GREER MEETS TITUS TO-DAY

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Aug. 6.—It will be Champion Frank Greer, of Boston, vs. ex-Champion C. S. Titus, of New York, to-day in the final heat in the single sculls of the Canadian regatta.

The Hub man is the favorite, but it will be no walkover, for Titus is rowing in excellent form.

Young Jim Ten Eyck was well satisfied to finish second in his heat in the intermediates, as he is pretty well tired out from his trip.

The final heat of the intermediate singles, between George Lloyd, of Arlington, Mass., and H. S. Turk, Toronto, promises to be exciting. The New England boy is confident of winning.

MAJOR DELMAR GETS RECORD

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 6.—At the Hudson River Driving Park, Major Delmar won the honors by breaking the half-mile trotting record, going the distance in 59½ seconds.

The Major held the previous record of 1:01, which he made at Memphis in 1902.

AUGUR, 5 to 1, WON

Aguing my nag horse wire did the trick. This makes the fifth winner this week. Can you beat me? Monarch only, turtles, that I write my followers one winner every day, and I do it. My record for fairness, meeting as well known, where, during the 22 racing days, I named fifteen winners. Is there any reason to believe that the meeting at the spa will be a repetition of the same? I am willing to name the number of good ones I put over. My clockers are powerful in the line of action, and being personally acquainted with all the owners, trainers and jockeys, I am always in a position to furnish you with the good ones each day. My one good bet for the morning mail below.

SARATOGA

Aug. 1. Sais, 10 to 1, won.
Aug. 2. Kenmore, 12 to 1, won.
Aug. 3. Elliott, 7 to 1, won.
Aug. 4. Danseuse, 6 to 1, won.
Aug. 5. A Lass, 5 to 1, won.

The meeting at the Spa is just bubbling over with a number of good things. These tricks have been prepared at Brighton, Sheepshead, Gravesend, Jamaica and Aqueduct, and have been sent to Saratoga by their owners to win the money. If you are anxious to get your share of these good things, I would advise you to subscribe. Send for my plan of operation.

Mon., Tues. and Wed.

For Monday a trick that will be 30 to 1. Horse has a chance for a million dollar purse, a fit to choke a mule and can run a mile and furlongs in 1.34 flat. This looks like the goods. For Wednesday a 5 to 1 shot, but a sure winner. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, one good one each day. Now is your time to subscribe. Mail orders telegraphed at 7 A. M. Terms $2 daily; $5 for 3 days, $10 for 8 days. Address,

IS THIS THE PRETTIEST BABY IN BOSTON?

Here is a new candidate in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S Prettiest Baby Contest.

HERE is published the photograph of another pretty baby, sent to the BOSTON AMERICAN in response to the suggestion published on this page that a contest to determine who is the prettiest baby in Boston would arouse interest even in excess of pictures to determine who is the prettiest woman in Boston.

Pictures of pretty babies, to be printed in this discussion, will be welcomed at this office. If the owners wish they will be returned, provided a request to that effect accompanies them and return postage is enclosed. Address pictures and any letters on the subject to the Baby Contest Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, 26 Summer street, Boston. Send along your prettiest little one. If the owners wish their photographs returned, who has the most charming baby?

SHE TELLS GIRLS THEY SHOULD NOT BE ASHAMED TO BE CALLED GOOD-NATURED

FOR SOME unknown reason, most girls object to being called "good-natured."

I asked a girl who had been spoken of as "good-natured" the other day why she did not like it, and her answer was:

"Oh, it means that you are weak, easily fooled; that you don't know how to say 'No' or stand up for yourself."

Now, that girl was absolutely wrong.

Good nature does not mean any of those things. It means a happy, sunshiny nature, doing kindly little services for others, obliging, ready to do more than your share of work—no crossness nor peevishness.

Oh, it's a great blessing, the quality of good nature.

It does not mean that you are in the slightest degree weak, but it does usually mean that you put self in the background, doing for others much that they, taking advantage of your good nature, will not take the trouble to do for you.

If you have ever lived with a peevish or sulky person, you can appreciate the blessing of living with a good-natured one.

Peevishness is sometimes the result of poor health; suffering has warped the entire nature until nothing is good or lovely in the eyes of the unhappy sufferer.

But sullkiness is purely the result of brooding over real or fancied wrongs, making yourself and every one else unhappy.

The misery of living with a sulky person is untold.

Good nature is a great beautifier. Many an otherwise plain face is redeemed by its expression of good will toward all mankind.

No matter how pretty your complexion and features, if you have a cross, discontented or peevish expression you will not be admired.

Men are always anxious to meet a pretty girl, but if they find that her beauty is only on the surface they very quickly tire of her.

Beauty is very fine as a luxury, but for steady, every-day use sweetness of disposition is much more satisfactory.

So, dear girls, don't despise the good old virtue of good nature. It will help you through many tight places, and will make you many friends.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

LETTERS From Woman's Page Readers

READERS of this page are showing keen interest in the subjects discussed here that appeal to women, and are sending many letters giving their views. Some of them are printed to-day and others will appear from time to time. Letters of the kind are welcome. They should be addressed, Editor Woman's Page, BOSTON AMERICAN, 26-32 Summer street.

DO FRIENDS OF THE FAT AGREE WITH THIS?

Editor Woman's Page, BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am a great admirer of the writings of Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox and was greatly pleased to read her poetry on "The Beggar Cat." There is truth as well as poetry in the verses.

Now, I want to ask if the cat industry is not somewhat overdone? Shouldn't a heavy tax be imposed on every cat in order to lessen the production? If a tax, say of $5, was imposed on every cat in the State of Massachusetts, it would have a tendency to stop this over-production of felines.

There are now in Massachusetts some 500,000 cats of no particular value to anyone. A 10-cent mouse trap will keep a home much cleaner of mice than the combined efforts of two first-class house cats. These 500,000 cats are born bird-destroyers, and if each cat destroyed on an average of only one bird in a season, this is what ravages would be made with our feathered songsters! As matters now stand, there are several cats to one bird all over the United States, and there is a constant decrease of all kinds of insect-eating birds, owing entirely to the overstocking of the country with a useless cat family. In consequence of these bird-destroying animals, the moths that should have been eaten by the birds have got the upper hand of our vegetation, and they threaten to destroy all of our beautiful trees, and will do so unless we put a stop to cat production.

WHAT DO BOSTON WOMEN SAY TO THIS NEW YORK CRITIC?

Editor Woman's Page, BOSTON AMERICAN:

I think it would be a very good idea if you would start a department in your paper to teach women how to hold up their skirts on the street. Not one woman in 500 in Boston has the faintest idea of how to keep her skirts out of the dust and mud, and, at the same time, maintain a neat appearance. Skirts are either held too high or else they are held up on one side and drag on the other. This is more noticeable in Boston than in any other large city. Also, why will not women, when on the street in rainy weather, wear shoes that are at least decent and not broken and run down at the heel? They would if they could see themselves as men see them.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO HAVE MEN PUT BY THEMSELVES IN TROLLEY CARS?

Editor Woman's Page, BOSTON AMERICAN:

I think that the trolley cars should have seats exclusively for ladies. It is very disagreeable to have stout men crowding by you. Sometimes they are so careless where they step. Not only do you have your feet trod upon, but a light skirt is apt to get so soiled. I, for one, should be willing that the smokers should have another car or two, if men were kept entirely out of others.

THE FAMOUS DESIGNER OF GOWNS FOR THE "400" OF NEWPORT AND NEW YORK DESCRIBES THE PARISIAN COAT FOR THE WOMEN READERS OF THIS PAGE.

Coat of Blue Mousseline de Soie.

THE newest wraps and coats mousseline de soie, banded with blue for evening wear in Paris velvet. Around the shoulders was a are very beautiful. One of wide stole of Irish lace, which hung the most attractive that I to the bottom of the coat of palest saw there was a very perishable blue. The sleeves could only be decoat of the daintest shade of blue scribed as clouds of palest blue.

A Day Off

Boston American Daily Short Story

By Landon Carter

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"TING, ting, ting," went the telephone. Miss Turner moved lazily on her pillows, sat up and in a dazed manner rubbed her eyes with the backs of two small hands.

"Ting, ting, ting, ting, ting."

Two little white feet shot out from underneath the covering and white running to the 'phone the owner of them exclaimed petulantly, "Eight o'clock in the morning—and Sunday, too. What a shameful inconsideration!"

"Hello!" in a deep basso profundo.

"Hello!" replied Miss Turner sweetly and immediately forgetful of all former petulancy.

"Is this Miss Turner?"

"Yes."

"Well, this is Ashby Waller. I am awfully sorry to have disturbed you so early in the morning, but"—

"Oh, that's all right, Mr. Waller," replied Miss Turner in honeyed tones. "You know I'm a country girl and never sleep late. (Oh, Lord!)

"Well, as I was going to say, I am awfully glad I didn't disturb you, but the day is so fine and as I haven't seen you for a whole week—but then I thought, perhaps, you would take pity on me and—Well, to tell you the truth, Miss Turner, the day is so fine and this Spring air so invigorating that I feel 'right down' wicked, and want to know if you will not join me in a little spree in the country?"

"Well—er—I don't quite know," stammered Miss Turner hesitatingly. "It sounds delicious, and—to me seems only a wee bit unconventional—but if it's wicked"—

"Oh, no, no, no," hastily interrupted Mr. Waller, "of course it is not wicked—unconventional is the word I wanted, but you always do upset my calculations—but now listen. My plan is that you let me call for you at 10 o'clock. Please be ready!" (pleadingly) "for our train leaves at ten-thirty. By noon we should be at Port Jefferson, where my yacht is anchored. We can lunch on it and be back in New York at 8. Now, what do you say?"

"Say!" answered Miss Turner merrily. "Why, I will go, even if upon our return we are met by policemen and a patrol wagon."

* * * * *

"Port Jefferson the next station!" yelled an inconsiderate conductor, and thereby calling to earth the two travellers.

"Oh, I say, Belle," said Mr. Waller.

"Eh?" answered that young lady with an astonished and startling glance.

"Well, I simply must call you Belle—at least to-day," continued Ashby, "for on this trip we are to be cousins, you know. Discretion and Mme. Grundy both demand that."

"Eh?" again stammered Belle, as though that exclamation alone constituted her entire vocabulary.

"Well, you see, little girl, it's this way, you know. The men on my yacht may not appreciate what very discreet, innocent people we really are and might wonder why my wife is not along."

"Your what"

"My wife," answered Ashby, unabashed. "I didn't know you had one," said poor Belle, with reproachful earnestness. "Oh, I am afraid by coming here with you I've done something very wrong."

"Not in the least," answered Ashby, confidently. "Lilly is a brick and wouldn't care at all, and the only thing for you to think about and remember is that I am your cousin, and she, perhaps, a distant connection. I shall allude to her as your Cousin Lilly. Now cheer up, little girl, for I want this to be a red letter day. It will also be well for you to remember that Cousin Lilly is not well, and you may consider all, in the revival of that quaint old-fashioned cross stitch that our grandmothers used to display over their parlor chairs. Indeed the whole garniture of the boat is to be old-fashioned, even to the old-fashioned method of doing it. It has not been improved upon, unless it be that one can buy canvas in all sizes and weaves. This is basted on the material, and when the stitcher is finished the basting threads are drawn and we have the daintiest cross stitch on the finest goods.

"In this way it can be used on any material, from the finest linen to the coarsest, both suitable for cross stitch, although other methods of trimming may be used if desired. The blouse is ornamented in narrow cross stitched flat. It is made on the shirt waist lines and the closing is in the back. The dainty collar and the new sleeve are two original ideas which gives the blouse a deep up-to-date standing. The skirt is one of the new models. This form is outlined by narrow cross stitch in advantageously employed. The skirt may be made in full, gauge or normal length, thus making it suitable for any style dress.

The home dressmaker can exercise her own taste as to making and trimming.

"Oh, I don't know; I am not familiar with nautical customs and was only asking for information. Now, you are going to give us a good dinner to-day, aren't you? For Mr. W—er, Cousin Ashby and I are enormously hungry, notwithstanding the popcorn, candy and chewing gum that we indulged in on the train. By the way, we brought you these," said she, producing several paper bags and handing them to him.

"Fuix, an' yer had better kape them yersilf, 'cause 'twill be no dinner yer gets to-day 'aboard the Ripple, for I'm down agin with the 'tremens.'"

"What!" exclaimed Belle and Ashby simultaneously—"no dinner?"

"Oh, bush!" said Belle, merrily, "to-day nothing matters, and we can stop somewhere along the road and get sandwiches and stuff like that!—then, turning to Mr. Waller, she continued with a sly wink—"after all, it is best that Cousin Lilly didn't come along with us, isn't it? For her delicate, she said:

"Now who is this particular beauty? If she occupies as prominent a position in your affections as her picture does in your room I should think Cousin Lilly might be jealous."

A pinch on her arm made Belle turn, only to see Cousin Ashby's face crimson, while his arms were gesticulating like a Dutch windmill.

"What's the matter with you?" asked Belle innocently.

"Oh, nothing," said Ashby. Then he coughs, chokes, swalls violently and again roars. "Rather a severe attack, isn't it, Chief?" asked Belle. "I hope he doesn't have them often. But if he goes on doubling and cavorting up like that he will have to be able to untie himself. I simply never be able to call my beautiful lady is and he seems quite overcome with emotion."

"That's yer 'Cousin Lilly'," said the Chief, with a merrily suspicious twinkle in his truly Irish eyes.

"Oh—er—c—hem! Yes, to be sure" stammered Belle, "but I—er—don't think it a very good likeness." Then, turning, she said in an undertone to Ashby: "For the Lord's sake, do something—say something; order the sandwiches unpacked, fall overboard, anything to help me."

"And so, Belle, you don't regret your day's outing?"

"Regret It? Why, I never had such a good time before in my life, notwithstanding my many breaks and their subsequent complications. And what a darling the old Chief is! And our luncheon! Did you ever think that sugared chicken, salted cakes and an occasional insect thrown in could be palatable?

"And so you really did enjoy the excursion?"

"Enjoy it? My only regret is that I can't become a past master in the delightful arts of 'Mother Eve.'"

SOCIETY

By the Chaperon

Miss Eleanor Sears, the Miss Eleanor Sears, has introduced a new fashion at the Newport tennis. When playing tennis at the Casino she wears a heavy brown or green veil. These veils conceal the entire face, with the exception of the eyes, which peer out in truly Oriental fashion, so it can easily be seen that complexions are again receiving consideration after having been given but second thought for the past four or five years. This mode has become quite general among the smart set at Newport, and one can see Miss Sears, Miss Cynthia Roche, Miss Potter and Miss Blanche Oelrichs at the Casino most any day indulging in a strenuous game of tennis with this peculiar face dress.

I am very much surprised at Miss Sears's fad. She is known as one of the severest dressers in Boston society and is a follower of the mannish style of dress to a degree. She is not usually given to fads and never copies one, so this idea of hers one can rest assured as being original.

Malcolm McBurney, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles McBurney, of Stockbridge, is making quite a name for himself as a golf player. Mr. McBurney is hardly more than a boy, and his youthful appearance reminds one more of a ruddy good-natured caddy than the expert player that he is. He has just lowered the record for the Lenox golf course from 80 to 76. The real test of his strength, however, will come in the approaching tournament of the Stockbridge Golf Club when he will meet Walter Tuckerman in the contest for the Stockbridge cup.

Tuxedo is declaring itself as something of a Summer resort this year as more people are remaining there for the whole Summer than ever before. The Henry W. Poors will not go to Maine as usual, but will spend the Summer quietly at their home in the Ramapo Hills. Their daughter, who married Captain James K. Cochrane, and has her home in a romantic bungalow in Africa, is missed in the home, so the Poors have less inclination for the gayeties of the Maine resort.

I predict that the garden party to be given on the Edward J. Berwind lawn at Newport, to-night, for the benefit of the Tuberculosis fund, will be one of the greatest financial successes that Newport has ever seen. The proceeds from the sale of tickets and seats already amount to $4,000, and this sum is away ahead of expectations. The list of subscribers, headed by Mrs. Astor, includes practically the whole Summer colony.

There is quite a gay Boston colony at Rockland, Me., for the Summer, and a deal of entertaining is going on among the cottagers. I note among the prominent Boston society people there the Henry A. Reuters, Mrs. Johnathan H. White, Mrs. George Napier Towle, Mrs. Abby A. Wyman, Jr., and Mrs. Eugene Smith and Henry A. Morse, whose yacht Cossack is anchored off the breakwater.

Northeast Harbor, Me., is also proving quite an attractive place for Boston society, and many of the most prominent members of the smart set are there for the season. Among them I hear of Mrs. E. W. Amory, Dr. G. G. Hayward, Winthrop Sargent, Miss E. P. Sohier, the J. G. Thorps and Henry C. Whitney.

George W. Weld of Boston has as his guest at his Newport villa, James A. De Wolf of Trinidad, whom Mr. Weld frequently visits when yachting in Southern waters in the Winter time. He is soon to give a dinner in his honor.

The Eugene V. R. Thayers are at Newport, and are to spend the remainder of the Summer with Mrs. Thayer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks. The Thayers will be the center of quite a gay little coterie, as I hear that the Brooks are to entertain quite extensively for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Winslow, who come to Boston quite often in the Winter, are at their charming Summer home at Homestead Hill, Charlemont. They have been the hosts at a series of very pleasant house parties that have been attended by a number of Boston society.

REAR ADMIRAL RIVET WRITES HIS REGRETS

Tells AMERICAN Dupleix Must Leave Boston Before G. A. R. Week.

The French flagship Dupleix will not remain in Boston for G. A. R. week unless her orders are changed by cable from the French Ministry of Marine in Paris. Rear-Admiral Rivet, who is in command, has sent a letter to the BOSTON AMERICAN expressing his regret that imperative orders, which were received by him some time ago, will make it necessary for him to leave Boston before August 15.

Here is a translation of the Admiral's letter:

Naval Division of the Atlantic.
On Board the "Dupleix,"
Boston, August 5, 1904.

Rear Admiral Rivet, Commander-in-Chief of the Naval Division of the Atlantic, to the Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

It would be a great satisfaction for me and for the officers and sailors under my command to be able to assist at the fetes that the City of Boston is in a few days to celebrate in honor of the veterans of the Grand Army of the American Republic.

I regret exceedingly that the programme of my cruise is too important, and that orders, long since issued, will prevent us remaining in the harbor of Boston until the date of the celebration.

I appreciate greatly the sentiment that makes you kindly desire that the Dupleix prolong her stay at Boston, and it would be exceedingly agreeable to me under the circumstances to unite with our comrades of the brilliant American navy, whom I have met in all the seas of the globe and among whom I count many personal friends.

In wishing the fullest success to the celebration of the City of Boston, I pray you, my dear sir, to accept the assurance of my sentiments of distinguished consideration. J. RIVET.

GIRL SUBDUES MAD TERRIER

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—Maddened by lack of food for four days, a small fox terrier ran from a house at Twentieth and Arch streets and bolted madly down Arch street, biting four persons.

Pursued by a mob of men and boys armed with bricks and clubs the animal ran up Seventeenth street to Summer, where a young woman threw a carpet over the animal's head, gave it a bowl of bread and milk and then took the thoroughly subdued canine into her home. Four persons were bitten by the dog.

DECLARES DOGS HAVE SOULS

Has a dog a soul?

Do you believe so, or what is your opinion? If you can give an explanation of the absorbing question propounded by the BOSTON AMERICAN at the time of its publication of H. Rider Haggard's remarkable dog dream, compress it in a succinct, terse and lucid statement of not more than two hundred words and forward it to the editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

The following masterly explanation of the phenomena has been forwarded by H. L. Whittock, president of the Boston Psychic Conference:

Says Dogs Have Souls.

"Since 1881 I have seen and heard thousands of psychic phenomena. During the years since then I have been president of the Facts meeting and editor of the Facts Magazine, and am now president of the Boston Psychic Conference.

"I have been present, where mediums have sensed or seen dogs, and have described them to persons who have recognized them. I have also known of their presence in dark seances.

"Spirit or soul phenomena are very common in this age. The Bible, as well as many other writings, teaches these mental facts.

"All classes of phenomena found in psychic experiments—including Christian Science and other metaphysical schools, spiritualism in its many expressions of phenomena, telepathy or thought transference before or after the death of the physical body, and many other forms of mental action—belong to the same natural laws.

"Very few people know of a life after the death of the physical body. Christians believe they will live and most of the world's population believe in a future life. Very few know that the soul or spirit lives after so-called death and is conscious and can communicate with those who are still living in the physical body. These, however, are so well demonstrated that all may know if they desire.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE IT!

GIANT FIR KILLS 2 TRAVELLERS

EUREKA, Col., Aug. 6.—Two travellers were killed by a falling fir tree while driving on the road between Garberville and Dyerville.

They were driving a team hitched to a buckboard on which was loaded a camping outfit, when a giant tree, whose roots had been weakened by fire, fell across the front of the vehicle and one of its occupants, killing him and pinning him beneath it. His companion was struck on the head by a projecting branch, which penetrated his skull, causing instant death. In striking the buckboard the horses were released and the frightened animals galloped to the Olson ranch, about four miles from Phillipsville. From these ancor was sent, but too late to do other than protect the bodies from mutilation by the animals of the surrounding forests.

A new and remarkable photograph of Pope Pius X. at the throne of St. Peter's is a full-page feature of to-morrow's great BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. Better order in advance of your newsdealer if you would make sure of securing a copy.

The Chicago packing house of Libby, McNeil & Libby is one of the units that go to make up the Beef Trust and that unite to rob the people.

It is one of the concerns now fighting its men after breaking its agreement with them.

Edward Tilden, representative of Libby, McNeil & Libby, has something to say and he takes the public into his confidence. He is a little abler—in the line of unconscious foolishness—even than the celebrated Baer, who said that God gave the coal to the Trusts, that God selected him to boss the people, and that those who objected were whining dogs.

Mr. Tilden, Baer's rival, has things to say about child labor.

The whole trouble to-day, it seems, comes from the LAWS that will not let little children be put to work in the packing houses.

The State of Illinois, you know, has laws to protect young children against such men as Tilden and his employers.

Hear what Tilden, speaking for the Beef Trust, has to say in a formal, official statement:

"The child labor law has done more harm than good in the Stock Yards industry. Before the enactment of the statute forbidding the employment of children under sixteen years of age, many of them obtained profitable work in the packing plants. Now they run at large in the neighborhood, for their parents will not keep them in school. As a matter of fact, a boy who has not learned to work by the time he reaches sixteen years of age, never will learn. He has, on the other hand, acquired habits that make him unfit for work.

"Many people hold that the best industrial condition is that in which all the members of a family who wish can find employment at the same place. This was the condition in the packing industry before the passage of recent laws. Fathers, mothers and children worked together in the same establishment. Earnings in many instances were large, one family drawing nearly $100 a week. This should tend to dispose of the charge that women and children worked because the men did not earn enough to support them."

If this view of child labor were that of an isolated individual it might be passed over in contemptuous silence.

The sad part of it is that it reflects the real opinions of a great many important men.

It expresses the secret, if not openly expressed conviction of many great employers, of those THAT THROUGH WEALTH HAVE THE GREATEST INFLUENCE IN SHAPING OR DEFEATING OUR LAWS.

These men that advocate child labor are not vicious. They do not want to stunt human beings in their growth. They do not want to spread consumption by ruining the lungs of children. They don't want to make the race feeble and degenerate for the sake of profit.

They do those things without realizing that they do them without seeing them.

If you look at the blazing sun you are not conscious of the motes that float between it and your eyes. The sun's glare blinds you to everything else.

The ambitious men—FINANCIALLY ambitious—with his eye fixed on a great fortune and a great commercial success does not see the tiny human beings that float and sink and disappear between him and his ambition.

Edward Tilden, representing the struggle of the millionaire packers for more millions, deplores the law that prevents setting young children to work in the packing houses.

He feels about that as he would feel about a law forbidding the slaughter of young pigs, or as he feels probably about the law against selling "bob" veal.

He knows that there is money to be made out of young children, as money is to be made out of young pigs or calves. The child works for almost nothing, and sells its life with its work.

The spokesman of the Beef Trust is simply unimaginative and ignorant—brutally unimaginative and deplorably ignorant.

Fortunately the laws restrain him and his ignorant clan—the ignorant child-slave employer, the ignorant thief, the ignorant murderer.

The danger in such remarks from an ignorant employer lies in their effect upon the ignorant POOR man.

The spokesman for the Beef Trust says he would like to see "all the members of a family find employment at the same place."

This suggests the following picture: A workman, his wife, his children, old and young, and even his father and mother, working day in and day out at the packing house. It suggests also a picture of the Beef Trust owner away in the country with his children and wife.

The ignorant employer says to his men that he wants their labor and life, the life and labor of their whole family. "I want you, your children, your wife, ALL to work and live for me."

Is that the way for a rich man to talk to his workers in a republic? Is that not shameful and utterly lacking in humanity?

SHE EXPRESSES STRONG OPINIONS ABOUT LOVE-MAKING BY OFFICE TELEPHONE

"SAY," asked the Office Boy; d'ye hear the going over the boss give de new clerk what was handing out sweet talk to his goil over de telephone? De old man was red-headed, and what he said raised a blister.

"He told de soft guy dat if he throught this was a matrimonial bureau he had another guess and a move-on coming to him, and dat if he had any lady friends he wanted to tip 'em off dat this telephone was for business purposes only. See?"

"He's dead right," said the Stenographer; "if I were an employer I wouldn't stand for love-making over the wire in business hours a little bit. If Romeo wanted to chin his Juliet he'd have to defer the pleasure of telling her he never loved before and could never love again until after quitting time. I'd about as soon have an employe with the Willies or the pool-room bug as one with the telephone habit."

"That's about the way the stony-hearted employer is beginning to figure it out, too," agreed the Bookkeeper, "and that's the reason so many pretty boys are always out on a hunt for a new job. If a young fellow wants to get queered in business, about the easiest way he can do it is to have a lot of Mamies and Sadies and Carries and Maudes calling him up all times of day over the telephone.

"I'm no ladies' favorite myself, and so I've escaped that particular hoodoo; but I've seen plenty of good fellows get the double cross from fool women that seemed to think that they had nothing to do but talk pink tea patter over the telephone.

"I knew one fellow who was the whole works as an accountant, but who never could nail down a job because he was simply telephoned out of every good thing that came his way. By the time he got busy of a morning some bunch of railco with the hello mania would call him up to ask him why he didn't blow into the fudge party, or some other footless thing like that, and the boss would begin to look at him out of the slants of his eyes, and by the time a few other of his female admirers also demanded him at the telephone box, it was the services-no-longer-required slip in his envelope on Saturday, and all for no fault of his, except knowing a bunch of fool women who never seemed to get on to the fact that employers don't hire a fellow to waft hot air to lalapaloosas over the telephone. I guess that if Mamie knew that her Archibald got cold feet every time he heard the telephone bell ring she'd cut out a few. It's no way to graft a man's heart by jeopardizing his job."

"You never know how silly a girl can be, anyway," said the Stenographer, "until you hear the giggles and imbecility that she pours into a telephone receiver. It's enough to burn up even a copper wire. Did you ever listen to the intellectual chirpfest that a perfectly sweet little thing will tear off?

"Don't you know me? Don't you recognize my voice?"

"It'll go like this. She'll call up some business house and have a man stopped from his work and come to the telephone box. Then she will say: 'Is that you, Archie? Who's this talking to you? Don't you know me? Don't you recognize my voice? Oh, you naughty boy. Yes, this is me, ——, I —I—mean. Yes, it's Sadie. No, it isn't Mamie. He—he—he—heeeee. No, I don't want anything. I just thought I'd call you up because I didn't have anything else to do.'

"And what do you think the man is thinking to be stopped from his business for that?"

"Damn," responded the Bookkeeper, with feeling.

"And that isn't the worst of it," went on the Stenographer. "A girl with a telephone is worse than a Sherlock Holmes about hunting a fellow down. There's no way for him to escape. If he don't show up as often as she thinks he ought to, she calls him up, and he has to make good on some sort of an excuse. It's bad enough for a woman to keep tab on a man when he's married to her, but the telephone tab before marriage is the limit.

"It sure puts Cupid out of business, for I'm wise no telephone connects with his dungeon cell."

"I don't believe in love-making over the telephone, anyway," said the Bookkeeper.

"Same here," responded the Stenographer. "I don't want any man making love to me with his mouth a thousand miles off."

Little Editorials from the People

THE BOSTON AMERICAN welcomes its growing army of correspondents, who write their views on the many questions in which they are interested, but for the sake of all, and in order to give the hundreds who write to it a chance, it is requested that all make their "little editorials" very brief. Letters of from 100 to 200 words will speedily appear. Longer ones must wait, and are likely never to see the light.

DENY YOURSELF IN ORDER TO MAKE THE OLD SOLDIER WELCOME

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

How can I help to make G. A. R. week a success? That is a thought that has occurred to me as well as to Mr. Johnson, who asks in The Question in the BOSTON AMERICAN. In the first place, decorate your houses with the emblem of all that is great and good. We cannot do too much for the veterans. They are fast passing away. Let us see to it that they are well taken care of. In our parks and other places let us give way to the old soldier. Let us deny ourselves certain things that he may enjoy them. There are many ways in which we can help by lending a hand. Let us do it, for from little things much is accomplished. MAX HENRY NEWMAN.

Boston, August 2, 1904.

LET EACH BE A COMMITTEE OF ONE ON HOSPITALITY

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have read with interest the letter written by Mr. Johnson on "How Can I Help to Make G. A. R. Week a Success."

Being an old "vet" myself and having noticed the lack of interest in many cities by the inhabitants in general in trying to do anything personally to make the stranger feel at home, I would suggest that every citizen of Boston make it a duty to speak to every one of the "old boys" they meet and be ready to direct him to the many points of interest in our beautiful old city and to have patience in answering all questions he may ask.

Make yourself a committee of one to do all you can to keep up the standard of hospitality for which we are noted. The committee have their hands full, and each one can help very much in making the old boys remember us kindly on their return to their last visit to any encampment on this side. E. J. FOSTER.

WHAT DOES DR. BARTON SAY TO THIS?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

It makes a very sad impression on us to read such an announcement as that made by the Rev. Dr. Barton, of the American Board of Foreign Missions, about Armenia, in such days of outrages and massacres as appeared in the BOSTON AMERICAN.

It is to be regretted that Dr. Barton shows such ignorance about the locality and the nature of the happenings in Armenia, and about the political conditions existing in Turkey.

Dr. Barton is extremely mistaken in assuming that these disturbances are the result of bands of robbers composed of Turks, Kurds and Armenians, irrespective of race question. Dr. Barton apparently does not read European and American papers that are full of official and unofficial correspondence and consular reports to the effect that these massacres are done by Mahometan fanatics, assisted by the regular Turkish army by the very command of the Sultan.

It is a world-wide known fact that under the Turkish rule there is not a square foot where the people may live in safety. Nobody knows who is the next to be killed, whether he be in Macedonia, Asia Minor, Armenia or elsewhere. Every place governed by the Turk represents a hell on earth.

Dr. Barton gave us a surprising proof of his utter ignorance when he says that Hills, where several massacres have taken place, is out of danger. His remarks on this point will cause immense surprise to the people of that town, even to the foreign consuls residing there, but it will please the "Red Monster" the Sultan.

MAKE THE G. A. R. VETERANS FEEL THAT THEY OWN BOSTON

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I was much interested in Mr. C. E. Johnson's letter to the editor in which he asked how he could help make the week of the Grand Army encampment a pleasant memory to every veteran. He asked the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN to write out their suggestions.

It seems to me that in the first place every man and woman in the city of Boston or its suburbs that owns a flag should display it during the week of the encampment, and those who have none should go and buy at least one for that purpose. Let the red, white and blue flag that they fought for greet the old soldiers whichever way they look.

Second, don't be afraid to cheer. Some people say that Boston is cold. I don't believe it. Let us prove to these men from all over the country that we are warm in our regard for them. Cheer them as they pass in parades. Cheer the flag they carry. Don't be afraid to cheer.

While the veterans are in town help them all you can. Some of them are old and many of them are strangers. Give them directions, help them out, see that they don't meet with accidents, see that they get seats in street cars and in trains.

In a word, put yourself out to remember that Boston is their town while they are here and send them away saying this is the biggest and the pleasantest, and the grandest encampment they ever attended.

Boston. HENRY BIRDMAN.

CAN THIS REPORT ABOUT A FALL RIVER MAN BE TRUE?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am informed that a plano agent of this city has agreed to give $100 for a start to the strikers, and $25 per week while the strike lasts, and in return for this kind act he has put his collector and canvasser on three days per week each. I should think the strikers would give credit to the man that suffers for their sake, and not the man that would commit the act for a business purpose.
